Introduction

When you are given the Microsoft HoloLens, place it on your head and adjust it until it feels comfortable, and then proceed to look for the Hologram in the space around you.

Throughout the whole app, you will have three functionalities available to interact with the holographic environment:

- Gaze
 - The application tracks where in the virtual space you are looking (gazing) at.
 - You will see a circular pointer when your gaze is set on a Hologram (buttons or items of clothing).
 - Depending on where you are looking, different input commands are available.
- Hand Gestures (tapping)
 - Available when gazing at a clothing item, an outfit or a button.
 - To issue a tap command, place your hand in front of the HoloLens with thumb and middle finger together, and index finger pointing upwards, palm towards the hologram, and perform a tapping motion (join the index finger to the thumb and middle fingers).
- Voice Commands
 - You can say a series of commands out loud (outlined in the following two sections) to navigate through the app.
